Human immuno deficiency Syndrome associated with an underlying illness causing ongoing muscle loss that is not entirely reversed with nutritional supplementation. A range of diseases can cause cachexia.

Most Commonly Cancer. Congestive heart failure
Chronic obstructive pulmonary disease Chronic kidney disease and AIDS. Systemic inflammation from these conditions can cause detrimental changes to Metabolism and body composition

In contrast to weight loss from inadequate caloric intake, cachexia causes mostly muscle loss instead of fat loss. Diagnosis of cachexia can be difficult due to the lack of well-established diagnostic criteria. Cachexia can improve with treatment of the underlying illness but other treatment approaches have limited benefit. Cachexia is associated with increased mortality and poor quality of life

The orientation as a whole was very valuable in informing and giving an insight into expectations of my course. It is also let to me feeling much calmer approaching my first day, and allowed me to be a lot more familiar with where I had to be.

Thank you so much a great event. I was dreading the day thinking that I would be bored and just hear all of the things I had already read on the net. But I was pleasantly surprised I now feel ready to tackle this challenge ~~to~~ head on.

All activities and offered information sessions I was available to attend were very inspiring for me as I am of mature age and new to uni and this form of study.

Overall I found orientation quite helpful and would recommend all future students to attend.

Solar eclipse - the Moon coming between Earth and the sun so that the Moon's shadow sweeps over Earth's shadow. Sweeps over consists of two parts - the umbra or cone into which no direct sunlight penetrates; and the penumbra which is receiving light from only a part of the sun's disk.

To an observer within the umbra the sun's disk appears completely covered by the disk of the moon such an eclipse is called total. To an observer within the penumbra the moon's disk appears projected called partial. That observation is then called partial for observer.

Over 15,0000 people in India are killed every year due to traffic accidents. For a day average of 400 fatalities, India has one of the highest rates of accidents in the whole world. One of the prime reasons for these accidents is negligence of road safety norms and traffic signs. Road safety rules are not only limited to be used by motorists and drivers but also by pedestrians, cyclists, and others. Road safety campaigns are an important way to spread awareness among people about road safety measures and rules. Hence, all the staff and students have to attend this awareness rally.
